

63. Providence Emergency Management Agency, Strategy for Reducing Risks from Natural Hazards in Providence, Rhode Island (Providence, RI: Providence Emergency Management Agency, 2000). According to this source, damages from the 1938 hurricane would amount to approximately $225 million in today's dollars, and those from Hurricane Carol would be $134 million.
64. Firms with fewer than 500 employees are considered "small businesses" by the U.S. Small Business Administration.
65. Institute for Business & Home Safety, "What Does Rhode Island Have to Lose?" Media advisory, Feb. 8, 2000.
66. Governor Lincoln Almond, "Showcase State Initiative," Executive Order 98-13.
67. Federal Emergency Management Institute/Economic Development Administration, Disaster Resistant Jobs Training. Workbook for "Train the Trainer" course at National Emergency Training Center, Emergency Management Institute, Emmitsburg, MD, Oct. 31-Nov. 3, 2000 (FEMA/EDA, Washington, DC, 2000).